WYOMING CONFIDENTIAL INTERMEDIARY PROGRAM

ARE YOU SEARCHING FOR LINKS TO YOUR FAMILY?

STATE LAW FOR ADULTS SEPARATED BY ADOPTION

ADOPTEE

BIRTH PARENT

ADOPTIVE PARENT

Who Can Search?

Wyoming passed W.S. 1-22-203(b)), effective February 23, 1991, to meet the needs of its citizens by providing a mechanism to conduct a legal search for biological family members.

Anyone 18 years of age or older may petition a district court to start a search. This includes any adult adoptee, adoptive parent, biological parent, biological sibling or biological grandparent.

What is a C. I. ?

Confidential Intermediary (C.I.) is appointed by the district court judge to conduct a search for you. They are specially trained and are sensitive to the needs of triad members. They are given the authority to search “sealed” records.

How to Search?

The judge of the district court appoints a C.I. to search for you. You will receive a notice of appointment from the court naming the C.I. who will contact you.

What is a Petition?

A petition is an application form to be completed by the person wishing to have a search done for a relative separated by adoption. This legal form, when complete, tells the judge who you are, why you want to search, and who you want to find.

How Do I Petition?

Go to, or write, any Wyoming district court for a “petition form.” Complete this petition application and return it with Seventy Dollars ($70) to the clerk of the district court.

What is the cost?

Again, there is a $70.00 filing fee at the district court when you complete the petition. A C.I. charges $150.00 per search and expenses.

Responsibilities of a C. I.

A Confidential Intermediary accepts appointments from the court to represent you for the purpose of identifying and locating the sought after relative.

Upon locating the party, the C.I. requests written consent to release current information to the petitioner. A C.I. must protect the confidentiality of adoption records and the privacy of all parties to an adoption at all times.

No guarantee of reunion is made.

Confidential Intermediary Program Board

Wyoming statute provides for a board under the Department of Family Services, consisting of five members, to oversee this program. They can be reached by writing to:
